SENIORS INSTALL NEW OFFICERS

Will Ask Council to Take Over Year Book.—Favor Fifth Class

The Senior Class held their first meeting of the year on Oct. 25th. There was a splendid turnout and much important business was transacted. The general feeling seemed to be that there was a large amount of work ahead of the class and that the sooner beginning was made on it the better.

The installation of officers came first, John Caskets, the retiring president, formally handing over his authority to Sigvald Nielson and the new executive. President Nielson asked on behalf of the executive and himself for the full co-operation of all the members of the class in making this a successful year, and promised his best efforts to further that end.

The date for the Inter-Year Play competition being set for Nov. 30th, it was decided that work on the Senior play would have to be started immediately. A committee composed of Bessie Mitchell, Bee Timmins and Mac Millard was appointed to take charge. Miss Mitchell pointed out the difficult nature of their task and the necessity of everyone helping to the best of their ability.

The publication of the Year Book was then dealt with. During the past two years the Year Book has been edited by a committee composed from all four Years. This arrangement has proved most satisfactory as far as the actual compiling of the book is concerned, but it has put an unjustly heavy responsibility on the business manager. This being the case, the Senior class, since they are vitally interested in the matter, decided to suggest to the Students' Council that the Students' Union undertake the responsibility of getting out the Year Book.

Pres. Nielson pointed out that the class pin and the class memorial could be decided on and ordered early in the year just as well as later—better in fact, since there was always too much to attend to as Convocation approached. Acting to this, Barbara Villy, Helen Beny and Hugh Teskey were appointed a committee on the class pin, and Betty Andrews, Jack Saucier, Bill De Mille and Ken Jamieson a committee on the class memorial.

A lively discussion took place as to the position of those senior students in Medicine and in combined courses who, though Seniors, are yet not in their graduating year. Their number has greatly increased this year, which means that there is a considerable body of students outside of the year organizations. Not many of these wish to join the junior, sophomore or freshman classes, nor have they enough in common with the graduating class to gain much by joining it.

MEDICAL SERVICE HOURS ARRANGED

Arrangements for Emergency Cases Should be Noted Very Carefully

The following are the arrangements for medical services made by the Provost, Dr. J. M. MacEachran. Students would do well to notice the rulings carefully, especially those with regard to emergency cases.

Dr. Pope, Director of Medical Services, will be in the Medical Services office, Room 155, first floor Medical Building, for consultation from 4 to 4:30 p.m. daily with the exception of Saturdays, when the hour will be 12:30 p.m. Students are asked kindly to observe these hours and to report within fifteen minutes after the beginning of the consulting period.

Students confined to rooms should report immediately to the Nurse through the office of the House Superintendent, in the Men's Residences, and through the Adviser to Women Students, in the Women's Residence. Non-resident students confined to rooms should call Nurse Hayes, Phone 31765, or Dr. Scott, Resident Physician, Assinabois Hall, Phone 3912.

In cases of emergency, students should report, if possible, to the Nurse in charge of the Infirmary in Athabasca Hall, who will arrange for medical attention. In emergency cases, when neither Dr. Pope nor Dr. Scott is available, the nearest physician may be called in for the first treatment with the understanding that after such treatment the case will be turned over to the regular physicians connected with the Medical Services.

Nurse Hayes will be in the Service Room of the Infirmary, Athabasca Hall, for consultation in connection with minor ailments from 8:15 a.m. to 3 p.m. daily. Other hours by appointment.

Medical Service certificates covering lectures missed on account of illness will be issued only from the dates on which the case is reported to the physicians or nurse connected with the Medical Services.

VOTE ON NOV. 5

University students who are of age and who were here last year are, according to a recent ruling, entitled to a vote on the liquor plebiscite. If there are any such whose names are not on the voters' list now posted outside the Tuck Shop, they can have them placed there by notifying the enumerator who will be at the Tuck booth on Friday and Saturday between the hours of 10 a.m. and 4 p.m.

RUGBY CLUB HOLDS LIVELY MEETING

Will Request Funds to Send Team to Saskatoon

On Tuesday evening last a meeting of the Rugby club was held in the common room of the Arts building for the purpose of determining the activities of the senior team for the rest of the season.

The president of rugby, Stewart Dawson, speaking on behalf of the Athletic Executive, proposed two alternative courses that the senior team might take. According to his proposition the latter might disband, the players reverting to their respective inter-faculty teams, or they might remain intact and at the same time endeavor to secure from the Union treasury funds sufficient to finance a trip to Saskatoon. However, it had been understood that the purpose of this proposed trip was to keep the present team intact in order to aid in the development of a squad next year, so should the Rugby Club undertake to raise the requisite funds and fail, they would have to show their sincerity by playing regular Saturday afternoon games with the second team until "the snow flies."

To these proposals the members of the Rugby Club did not take kindly, maintaining that their organization was an autonomous one and had to accept rulings of the Executive. As an independent body they asserted that their status as inter-faculty players should be decided by the latter's executive, and that since the Students' Union exercised supreme authority over the items of the budget, they would go to them directly for the requisite funds. To this Mr. Teskey, president of Athletics finally agreed. He explained, moreover, that though his committee felt that they could not lessen the grants to other athletic organizations in favor of Rugby, they would not hinder the Rugby club in their efforts to raise money.

After this discussion centred upon the relations of inter-faculty to senior rugby, and on the justice of the latter's demands in view of the already heavy expenditure on their equipment. Though there was a feeling among some of the inter-faculty men that the use of both the equipment and of the grid had been too much in the interests of the seniors, the former readily agreed that had it not been for the work of the major organization much of the equipment now used by the inter-faculty teams would not have been available. Indeed the gathering showed an admirable feeling of concord between these two rugby organizations. Again when some of the seniors pointed out that in reality much of the money had actually bought equipment to be employed for the use of future university rugby teams, the amount really devoted to the use of this year's team seemed relatively small.

Following an hour's warm discussion, the gathering took definite action as regards the questions under consideration. John Walker's suggestion that matters concerning the inter-faculty league should be decided on by the captains of teams in the latter, was approved, while Bob Mitchell's motion, which proposed asking for funds from the Students' Union at its meeting on Oct. 29, was carried. With this the meeting adjourned.

SYMPHONY CONCERT

The Edmonton Symphony Orchestra on Sunday, November 18th, will give the first concert of the season. As reservations for seats are already being made, it is suggested that past and prospective patrons of the Orchestra wishing to take advantage of the special arrangements which have been made for University students should see one of the following as soon as possible: Mark Levey, Jack McAllister, Jim Nicoll, Albert Rudd, Johnny Walker, Jimmy Branton, Frank Halliday, Marjorie Bradford, Agnes McLeod, Betty Mitchell.

AN APPRECIATION

The tryout of the Junior play was held Monday and the committee are very grateful to the members of the class for the excellent spirit shown.

The committee had a very difficult task in making a final selection from the wealth of material.

Keen Debate on Budget Followed by Adverse Vote

First Time in History that the Estimates of the Council Have Been Turned Down at a General Meeting

On Monday, Oct. 29th, two exceptionally interesting sessions of the Students' Union were held. At 11:30 the budget was presented and a passed, which meant that the budget was rejected "in toto" and must be referred again to the Council. The meeting was adjourned to 4:30 and in the mean time the Council revised their estimates and prepared a new statement to present to the Union. The second budget was passed in the afternoon session, after which the meeting discussed the initiation problem. A committee was also elected to negotiate with the railway companies for cheaper rates at Christmas.

Morning Session of Union
President McAllister, on Monday, October 29, at one of the largest meetings ever held by the Students' Union, presented the annual budget for 1923-24. In marked contrast to last year's meeting, every item of expenditure was critically scrutinized, and a well informed and helpful discussion took place.

A draft of the budget similar to that which appeared in the last issue of The Gateway had been placed on a blackboard, and the treasurer of the Union, "Pip" Owen, went over each item, carefully explaining each one, concluding by moving the adoption of the budget as presented.

Hugh Teskey, the president of the Men's Athletic association, in seconding this motion said that the members of the Council had drawn up the budget carefully and conscientiously, and had approached it with a desire to allot the money at their disposal in the best interests of all the students. The Council was handicapped by having as their guide only last year's budget which had passed in the Union without a word of discussion. In going over the different items, he said that while the general fund reserved to the Council might seem large, he thought it necessary that a substantial sum be reserved. The expenditures on men's hockey and basketball would depend largely on the kind of teams produced, and if good teams, it was the hope that sufficient money could be held in reserve to send them as far as possible. He approved of the expenditure on bleachers in the gymnasium, and believed this capital investment to be a good way to hand on the surplus received from last year's Council. He appealed for a constructive criticism of the whole budget, and said that even if it were rejected the interest aroused would compensate for that. "Pip" Owen here stated that he had that morning received an estimate from the Bursar that over $500 in fees had come to the credit of the Union since the budget had been prepared.

John Caskets agreed with Mr. Teskey that full discussion was very desirable and presented an amendment that $150 be given to the Rugby club out of the general fund. $520 had already been invested by the Rugby club in equipment. It is estimated that this equipment should last for at least four years, so that the use of these uniforms this year would cost $130, leaving a capital investment to be turned over to next year's team to the value of $890. The Rugby club has however, itself earned $170, which not only pays for the use of the uniforms for the year, but also leaves a credit balance of $40. In the face of these facts, he argued, no one could claim that Rugby was getting too much this year, or dispute their right to ask for more. The question then would naturally arise as to where the $150 is to come from. With the $500 general fund allowed for in the budget, plus the $500 extra fees just now announced, and the $200 capital expenditure on bleachers, with the $100 which the Year Book committee gave to the Rugby club, the additional $500 credit, there was no reason why rugby should not be granted their request, while a reconsideration of the whole budget was now imperative.

On the amendment being put to a vote it carried almost unanimously. The meeting then adjourned until 4:30 when President McAllister announced that the budget would again be considered. Mid-day Council Meeting
The budget having been referred back to the Council by the Students' Union on an amendment to the motion by the treasurer that the budget as presented be accepted, the Council met immediately after the Union meeting Monday to reconsider the money estimates for the year.

The wishes of the Students' Union as expressed in the meeting were respected, and $150 immediately voted to the Rugby club on the motion of "Pip" Owen, the amount to be taken from the general fund of the Students' Union for that purpose. A motion by the president of the Literary Association that the Glee club, the Orchestra, and the Dramatic Society each have their estimates increased by fifty dollars, was amended to delete the words "and the Dramatic Society" from the original motion, and the amendment carried.

A motion by Hugh Teskey to cut the amount allotted for bleachers to one-quarter of the original estimate, in accordance with the seeming wishes of the Union, went abortive for lack of a seconder. It was suggested by "Slippy" Barclay that if the general motive of the Students' Union was to cut the amount allotted to the general fund of the Students' Union, then the Basketball club could very well do with more money. Considerable discussion followed in which the general feeling seemed to be that a large sinking fund was desirable, especially after the unfortunate experience of three years ago when the Council upon taking up its work in the fall, found a debit balance upon its books of an amount well over one thousand dol-

WAUNEITA DANCE A GREAT SUCCESS

Hallowe'en Setting and Splendid Music Give Pleasure to a Large Crowd

On Wednesday evening in Convocation Hall the Wauneta Society held their annual reception to the men of the University of Alberta. Mrs. Tory, Mrs. Kerr, Mrs. Howes, Miss Patrick, Miss Dodd and Miss Agnes McLeod acted as hostesses at the dance, which with its genial spirit of friendliness proved a most successful opening to the social events of the coming season.

After receiving dainty, orange programs, made lively with weird, black cats, haggard witches or pumpkin faces, the guests, their names conspicuously pinned on coats or dresses, were ushered into the hall. Urged on by catchy strains of the latest pieces, delightfully rendered by the University orchestra, all sought partners and were soon whirling here and there under an enormous filmy web from which dangled spiders that sought in vain to scare the ladies away. Black and orange, the colors of revelry, reigned supreme and infused the crowd with the gaiety and sociability of the Hallowe'en season. Lean, lanky, vengeance-crying spooks and black witches of childhood days with their malign aspect, haggard faces and straggling hair stalking among the dancers gave the needed touch of unreality. Dainty elves scampered hither and thither to find partners for those who were not yet benefitting by the music. On the platform a large, gaily decorated tepee on the outskirts of a lofty mysterious looking forest brought to mind the Tribe Wauneta responsible for the evening's fun.

As the dance did not start until late the orchestra did exceedingly well in almost completing the program of twenty dances. Supper was served after the twelfth and the large crowd, still carrying on animated conversations scattered throughout the hall and gallery to enjoy it.

The old students unanimously agreed that it was the most enjoyable Wauneta dance they had ever attended and the new ones praised it most enthusiastically.

The numerous committees in charge of the dance deserve great credit for its unprecedented success. The conveners of the various ones were: Decorations, Helen Beny; Program, Barbara Villy; Reception, Bea Timmins, and Refreshments, Reva Studholme.

FOURTH YEAR MEDS ORGANIZE

Members Decide Will Be Solely For Study of Medical Problems—Unique Plan

The fourth year Medical students at an enthusiastic meeting held on Friday, Oct. 26, decided to organize with the object of promoting the study of scientific medicine, with special mention to the particular problems met with in the fourth year. Mark Levey was the unanimous choice of the meeting for the presidency of the new organization, while "Chub" Charlesworth was elected secretary. Dr. Pope was the Honorary President.

President Levey, on taking the chair, outlined what he considered to be the objects of such an organization. He believed that it should exist for no social purpose whatsoever, but for the advancement of medical science within the class. He advocated semi-monthly lectures in the evenings from doctors from the faculty and over-town, who would address the members of the class on subjects having a direct bearing on the work being done in the fourth year. These would be followed by discussions of the lecture along the lines adopted at medical association meetings.

These proposals met with the heartiest approval of the class, and it was decided that the meetings be held on the second and fourth Mondays of every month. Fifth year students will be welcomed to the meetings, and it is possible that an invitation will also be extended to the third year students in the faculty to attend.

The lectures and discussions should be of very material assistance to the students of the fourth year in their work, and they are all looking forward to a very profitable session. This is the first organization of its kind in the University, and its progress will be watched with considerable interest by the rest of the student body. The class has a membership of about thirty-five.

At the meeting of the French Club on Wednesday last a very interesting paper was read by Mr. de Savoye, showing the trend of realism in literary style. Among the ancients Homer, Demosthenes, Cicero, owed their vividness to this characteristic in their writings. This same clearness is one of the chief characteristics of French literature. Even early writers such as Rabelais are seen to employ this style. This is true of writers in each century. In the seventeenth there is Fenelon and La Fontaine, Bossuet. In the eighteenth century the trait was not so predominant. Passages were read from Voltaire where the descriptions were vague. In contrast to the realistic pictures drawn by the other writers. In the nineteenth century Chateaubriand Flaubert again showed the trend of realistic writing in contrast to George Sand who belonged to the idealistic school.

At the close of the address, Miss Helen Boyle moved a vote of thanks to the speaker.

SUNDAY SERVICE

The address at the University Service in Convocation Hall next Sunday (November 4th) will be given by Professor J. MacCartney Wilson of Robertson College. Dr. Wilson is no stranger to Convocation Hall, and his addresses have always been received with more than ordinary interest. His acceptance this year of the chair of Systematic Theology in Robertson College, with which he combines a regular preaching relationship with First Presbyterian Church, has now made Dr. Wilson a resident of Edmonton. It is expected that he will be greeted by a large body of students when he speaks in Convocation Hall next Sunday.

REGARDING THE BUDGET

The students who voted for the rejection of the original draft of the budget on Monday may flatter themselves upon the fact that they had a share in that unprecedented decision. The practice of passing the annual budgets without amendment has been followed so consistently in the past that it was becoming a habit and the presentation of the draft by the Council was in danger of becoming a mere formality. The very decided expression of opinion by the assembled members of the Students' Union on this vital question may prevent the decay of a right which lies at the basis of responsible government, and may set a new precedent which will guide future student bodies to a fuller appreciation of their privileges.

In thinking of the budget discussion which has absorbed so much of our attention during the past week we should remember that in voting on the expenditures of our student government we are exercising a right which has great historic significance. For centuries the struggle for democracy centred in the contest between the government and the people for control of the finances and today the fact that our representatives in Parliament hold the purse strings is the best assurance we have of responsible government. Not only can they limit the expenditure of the executive but they can direct their whole policy of administration. Similarly in our miniature state the time when public opinion can be most effectively brought to bear on the Council is at the time when the budget is being discussed.

In the past this opportunity has been too often neglected. Surely it is a disgrace to any intelligent student body to have it recorded that at the largest meeting last year the budget passed without a word of discussion, indicating that out of the eight hundred members of the Union not one had given the matter enough thought to have the slightest suggestion to offer the Council.

The McAllister government is to be complimented on the encouragement they have given to a thorough discussion of the financial arrangements. By prompt action after the Council meeting they got the figures published in The Gateway and they have exerted themselves in other ways to stimulate interest among the students as a whole.

The Rugby Club has also done a good deal to stir up discussion. Although their motives may not have been entirely disinterested they deserve the thanks of the student body for the example they set in dissecting the budget and ferreting out discrepancies.

The fact that the budget as first drafted by the Council fell short of the final estimate of Student Union funds by over $500.00 led to a state of affairs which to an outsider would certainly appear ridiculous. After the discovery of these additional funds the budget as presented to the Union was no longer the one which had been passed by the Council and the increase in the general fund threw it so dreadfully out of proportion that not even the members of the Council could be expected to approve of it. It is unfortunate that the correct estimate was not available when the executive discussed the matter first, particularly as the original figure turned to be so far astray. The Gateway would recommend that in future the presentation of the financial estimates be postponed till a reasonably accurate statement of our income is available.

In spite of the very strong opposition to the expenditure from current funds upon bleachers in the gymnasium, the final budget sanctioned this expenditure. In the opinion of The Gateway the arguments advanced against this expenditure are perfectly sound and the exponents of a sounder business principle did the Union a service in presenting their case. Under the circumstances, however, we believe that no great harm is done in charging them to this year's account. The prospects for basketball being exceedingly bright, the bleachers will probably pay for themselves this season. Besides we have a large general fund upon which there appear to be no more legitimate claims. Finally, if we regard the expenditure in permanent equipment as the equivalent of a surplus in cash at the end of the year, this will partly counterbalance the sum which was carried forward in the spring. The item of $215.00 is a comparatively small matter, but we should plan far enough ahead to meet larger demands in an adequate way. In this connection the policy of setting aside each year a definite amount for a permanent sinking fund might be profitably considered.

The general policy of leaving a large general fund at the arbitrary disposal of the Council is not consistent with our general policy in student finances. While it is recognized that it must have a margin for incidental and unforeseen expenditures, the effect of having too large a reserve can only be laxity in administration. Unless the Council can show from their plans (as other executives are required to do) that they can make good use of the money it should be allotted to other activities. This year the probable requirements of basketball justify a considerable reserve and since we have President McAllister's assurance that the Union will be consulted on major expenditures the present allotment will pass as satisfactory.

Despite assertions to the contrary, Eugene the Leopard informs us that his methods are not entirely "Ruthless."

Johnnie: Charlie, did I no hear ye swearin' at the table?

Charlie: 'Twas not the table. 'Twas my lack of appetite!

Dr. Gilchrist: Where do you spend your vacations?"

Nifty: In the moutains.

Dr. Gilchrist: Do you have a guide?

Nifty: Only my conscience.

Wunk: This place looks like hell!

Aherns: My, how that boy has travelled!

Calhoun: What does the word "assess" mean?

Hutzalak: You got me!

Calhoun: Why, it means a female donkey.

"What makes the butter bad?" he asked,

And pushed away the stuff.

"Because," said she, "when it was cream,

It wasn't whipped enough."

One of the Aggies, having occasion to buy a cow this summer, after haggling with the farmer for an hour, came flatly to the point: "How much milk does she give?"

"I don't rightly know," answered the farmer who owned her; "but she's a darn good-natured critter and she'll give all she can."

Saucier: Did you ever kiss a girl when she wasn't expecting it?"

Sprung: I doubt it.

Sam: Does B—— know much about automobiles?

Dunc: Heavens, no! She asked me if I cooled mine by stripping the gears.

Bill: Why do blushes creep over girls' faces?

Leone: Because if they ran they would kick up too much dust.

McLaren: I understand the doctors have given you up.

McCaulay: Yes, but I really did intend to pay them sometime.

For hours they had been together on the front porch. The moon cast its tender gleam down on the young and handsome couple who sat so far apart.

He sighed. She sighed. Finally, "I wish I had money," he said; "I'd travel!"

Impulsively she slipped her hand into his; then rising swiftly, sped into the house.

Aghast, he looked at his hand. In the palm lay a nickel.

Desperado: Halt. If you move, you're dead!

Mr. Salter: My man, you should be more careful of your English. If I should move it would be positive sign that I was alive.

Williamson had been in the habit of coming late to class, but after a remonstrance from the Prof he reformed.

Wishing to compliment him, the Prof said, "Mr. Williamson, I notice you are early of late." Williamson smiled and the Prof continued: "You were behind before but now you are the first at last."

The following letter, addressed to Casserole, is probably typical of the student point of view:

Dear Casserole:
I read your column every week. Some of the jokes I have seen before and some I have not seen yet.

Yours,
I. X. L.

Teskey (arguing in favor of co-education): When they take our girls, as they threaten, away from the co-educational colleges, what will follow? What will follow, I repeat?

Baker and Bures (in chorus): I will.

During the summer Sammy Savage turned his University education to use in the wholesale fruit business and it is reported that on one occasion he replied to the question of a customer as follows:

"I am compelled by circumstances entirely beyond my control to answer you in the affirmative. From what I have ascertained, after careful inquiry, a large consignment of herbaceous tropical fruit of the variety designated by you, apparently was delayed in shipment, or possibly has been misdirected, with results extremely disappointing to a large number of purchasers and, of course, to an even greater number of intending consumers. While I am opposed to the reprehensible practice of substitution, I may say that I have in stock a varied assortment of fruits which may possibly satisfy your pressing requirements, temporarily at least."

You are, of course, under no obligation to purchase any of these, and to dilate on their obvious excellence would, in the circumstances, be uncalled for. However, I mention it in passing, as I am forced to admit that we may have no bananas today."

Jimmie: Yes, Angus sings through his nose.

Mike: Sort of plays the organ, eh?

Initiation

The proposed changes in regard to initiation deserve the attention of all the students. As George Parney pointed out our problem is to separate the good features from the bad. We invite an expression of opinion through our correspondence column and we will endeavor to discuss the matter editorially in the near future.

GYM JAMS By Sealer

University of Saskatoon managed to hold the strong Varsity team to a scoreless draw.

The score was 0-0.

The team travelled down to Saskatoon with the Warren National Lamp Basketball team. The boys all swear by the girls now.

George Haworth and his gang had a busy time on the train, affectionately trading souvenirs with the girls.

Anybody desirous of seeing pictures of the Warren team had better get the Soccer XI together. Every fellow has at least one picture, while Sheik Cormack and MacDonald have almost a complete set.

Shippam has lost his faith in human nature. At the party in Saskatoon he fell desperately in love with Pauline McGuire. Imagine his feelings when Pauline took off her wig and proved to be a boy.

Henderson played a great game. There is no foundation, however, for the rumor that Hendy is going to England to coach.

At the Wauneta dance Tomlinson pulled a boner. He went without his girl.

A CORRECTION

In a recent issue our cub reporter inadvertently credited K. MacKenzie with the touchdown that really belonged to McCallum. The following letter is self-explanatory.

Sporting Editor, The Gateway,

Friday, Oct. 26th.

Dear Sir:—An account of the recent Inter-Faculty rugby game, Meds vs. Arts, appears in the last issue of the Gateway. In that article you credited me with scoring the sole touch-down secured by the Arts team. However, that touch-down was scored by another individual, McCallum, whose play in the game was of such high class that it should not go unrecognized.

I remain,

Yours sincerely,
KENNETH MACKENZIE.

OUTLOOK

By Kathleen MacNab

In accordance with the Treaty of Lausanne signed on July 24, 1923, and ratified by the Turkish government on August 23, the Allied troops have evacuated Turkey. The British troops were under the command of General Harrington who conducted the evacuation in a most able and efficient manner. The first three transports of British soldiers left Constantinople on the night following the ratification of the treaty.

This marks the dawn of a new era in Turkish history. For centuries Turkey has been under the domination of some European power, practically every power at some time has been Turkey's ally, but always with the purpose of using her to further their own selfish ends. Now Turkey has gained her own, she is to be independent of the other powers.

It cannot be said of the Turks that they have lacked military strength and ability in the past. The Crimean War revealed their strength and during the Great War they were the able, although some claim, reluctant, ally of Germany.

Although the Great War brought only defeat and national humiliation to the Turks they have since been more successful. The Treaty of Sievers set up a puppet government in Turkey under the control of foreign powers, but they have been able, through the nationalist movement of "Young Turkey," led by Mustapha Kemal, to overthrow the rule of the Sultan and establish Turkey as an independent and democratic state.

The Treaty of Lausanne marks another victory for these nationalists. By this victory Turkey holds a position she never held before. After centuries of oppression and foreign control, the Turks have succeeded in establishing a representative democracy, the Straits question and the financial difficulties have been adjusted and the problem of racial minorities has been settled to their satisfaction.

Although on the entrance of Turkey into the war as the ally of Germany, it was declared that this would mean the final expulsion of the Ottoman from Europe, they have succeeded in retaining their footing on the continent and are established even more firmly than ever. It remains to be seen whether Turkey will be able to carry on without outside interference. For years she has been controlled in some way by outsiders, and now when thrown on her own resources will Turkey be able to meet the problems of self-government?

Art is long, life short; judgment difficult, opportunity transient.

Varsity Defeats Nomads By a 19--0 Score

Students Take Kindly to English Rugby and Administer Severe Lacing to Strong Edmonton Team

HENDERSON AND DAVIS IN SPOTLIGHT

Varsity Team Composed Chiefly of Senior Rugby Squad Show Up Well in New Style of Play

The Edmonton English Rugby fifteen certainly received a surprise when they were taken into camp by the Varsity team in a fast game played under winter conditions at the Grid on Saturday afternoon. The final score was 19-0 and with the game goes the City Championship.

Because of the snowfall in the morning the Varsity gave up all hope of a game. In fact many of the players took in the C. O. T. C. route march and on arriving home found the Edmonton team waiting on the field. Considerable hustling was necessary to get a team together. Eleven men were eventually mustered and two more arrived later on. The game finally got under way at 4:45 p.m.

It proved, despite the inclemency of the weather, to be a fine game. The Varsity boys, most of them members of the Senior rugby squad, were in better condition than their opponents, and had things practically all their own way. Their lack of information regarding the rules caused them considerable bewilderment at times, but they made up for this deficiency by their aggressiveness and speed. McKenzie, Thomson, Henderson, Thomas and Macdonald notched the counters for Varsity. Henderson featured himself during the afternoon, when he made a dandy run of about 60 yds. through a broken field to put the ball behind the line.

First Period

Varsity won the toss and played with the wind. Edmonton kicked off. Numerous scrimmages were called due to Varsity's short acquaintance with the rules. In these Varsity got the ball out time after time and the three-quarters got away in fine style. Varsity forced Edmonton to their own line and then in a scrum forced them over the line for the first touch-down. Play started again and after several punts back and forth, Macdonald kicked an onside to "Chief" Davis who played the wing. Chief got away fast but was held at the line. Play moved back to centre field where Macdonald got the ball and wormed his way through the field for the second touch-down. Neither try was converted.

Second Period

Varsity played against the wind but it didn't bother them any.

ANNUAL MEET OF ALTA. A. A. U. OF C.

Varsity's Report Well Received
at Calgary Conference

On Oct. 20, at Calgary, Messrs. P. Owen and D. S. Simpson had the pleasure of informing the representatives of Provincial athletics just what part the Varsity played in amateur sport. The Varsity Reps. certainly had no grey hairs to show their ripened experience in the realms of amateur athletics, but a new atmosphere was noticeable after a few facts were put forth by them.

The threatened split of the western provinces from the Dominion body did not materialize, Manitoba and British Columbia being dead against it. The idea was to get the British definition of an amateur accepted, that is, enable a man to be pro. in one line of sport and amateur in another.

Varsity displayed an aptitude for the game that surprised the handful of onlookers. Henderson, one of the heroes in the recent Eskimo-Varsity tilt, was one of the outstanding players. His run, already alluded to, was a dandy. Davis played a fine game, both on the attack and in defence, his tackling and running being excellent.

Referee Albert Manning handled the whistle assisted by J. W. Jarman and D. Coghill on the touch lines.

TENNIS

The cold weather to some extent is slowing up the tennis tournament, but many games which could have been played before are still holding up those players who are anxious to see that the tournament is brought to close. Please arrange to play games at once.

The Ladies' Singles have reached the finals this week. Frances Alexander won from Jean McLennan in straight sets, 6-3, 6-4, and Marjorie Race defeated Eileen Evans 6-1, 6-2. Both matches were productive of some splendid tennis and the final match for the championship should be a pippin. Watch the bulletin board for notice of the date of this important match and see it.

In the Men's Singles four players have qualified for the eights. Results are given below.

Baker d. Walker, 2-6, 6-1, 6-2.
Bures d. Adams, 6-2, 4-6, 6-2.
Davies d. Goldstein, 6-1, 4-6, 6-1.
Giffen d. Waines, 6-4, 4-6, 6-4.

MEDS AND LAW IN PLAY OFF

Interfaculty Rugby Championship
To Be Decided on Friday

The Inter-Faculty Rugby schedule is rapidly drawing to a close with Meds and Law-Commerce assured of places in the play-off. There is only one more game to be played and as it will not affect the final standing it is doubtful whether it will be played or not. In the event of it not being played, it is altogether likely that Meds and Law-Commerce will stage a two-game series to decide the championship. Attendance at the games has been poor.

The Law-Com. team made sure of getting into the finals last Wednesday afternoon when they grabbed a 11-10 victory from the Arts team. Arts fielded a much better team than in their first game and had the lawyers worried.

Savage opened the scoring for Law when he secured a touch in the first quarter. The second spasm was productive of good rugby with Arts a shade the better. However, the gods were against them, for Savage, as a result of a fumble, secured the ball on their forty yard line and booted a beautiful drop to make the score read 8-0. Jack Lehmann was forced to leave the field a few minutes later when he injured his shoulder. Laverty horned in the limelight when he bucked over for Arts' first touch. It was not converted. No scoring marred the evenness of play during the third quarter, but in the fourth Savage secured another field goal. Arts tightened up and by a series of backs eventually were able to push Laverty over for his second touch. This also went unconverted.

McCallum was brilliant with his tackling, while the McKenzie brothers played their usual splendid game. Laverty's bucking was sensational, while for the Lawyers Savage was easily the pick.

The Line Up

Law-Com.—Olvern, Primrose, McDonald, S. Mc. Donald, Turner, DeMille, Gale, Mahaffy, Savage, Campbell, Sprung, Cairns.

Arts—Claxton, Salt, Mueller, McDonald, Watt, McCallum, Duggan, Ken McKenzie, Dug McKenzie, Walker, Hyslop.

Meds and Agsci played Friday and as a result of winning the game, 9-1, Meds are assured of meeting Law-Com. in the finals.

Coupe was easily the star of the Med aggregation. He kicked well and seemed to have the Agsci team hypnotized when they stood back and watched him fall on the ball for a touch-down. Waines, for the losers, played well, his running back of punts being uncanny. The Agsci team uncovered a few trick plays that were very complicated, but the passes were, unfortunately, generally forward.

Tester, Johnny Walker and McDonald were the mainstays of the Aggies.

For the Meds, Flater was playing well and getting good distance with his kicks. Coupe's running was spectacular, while Simpson on the line was a tower of strength.

The final game will be played Friday and a large turnout of fans is expected.

U. of A. and Saskatoon Play Scoreless Draw

Alberta Retains Soccer Championship.—Game Played Under Winter Conditions

D. HAWORTH IN FINE FORM

Varsity Goalie Saves from All Angles.—Team Entertained by Dance and Banquet

By holding the strong Saskatoon team to a scoreless draw in the game played last Saturday afternoon at Mayfair Park, Saskatoon, the U. of A. soccer eleven retained the soccer championship, having won the first game, played here last year, by a 1-0 score.

The game was played in a howling gale with a temperature that felt like forty below. George Haworth, the Alberta skipper, lost the toss, and Varsity had to face the wind the first period of the game. The first half consisted of a steady bombardment of the Alberta goal by the Saskatchewan sharpshooters, but David Haworth, covered by Stock and Morrison, emerged from a trying ordeal with great credit. Several times it seemed as if the Alberta goal must fall, and corners innumerable fell to the home side, but the very strength of the gale made it difficult for the attackers to control the ball. On two occasions Haworth saved very hot shots.

During the second half the wind moderated somewhat, and something a little more like football was seen.

The U. of A. forward line seemed to lack both combination and penetrative power, though Haworth and Devlin on occasion made great individual efforts. The forwards found themselves up against a very good full back in W. P. McLean, who was undoubtedly the best man on the field. The halves, like the forwards, lacked cohesion. MacDonald, though he had a good many free kicks given against him for foul throws in front of the line, was perhaps the most effective of the line. The defence of the backs left little to be desired, their tackling and kicking

CONCERNING STYLE FOR PARTICULAR YOUNG MEN

YOUNG MEN have a secret and well-defined philosophy about their clothes.

They regard clothes with due importance—they realize that good appearance is a power with which to achieve notice, interest, regard, success. They also have their own philosophy as to the sort of clothes that will express their objective—a type of clothes all their own—styles that interpret their ideas of good grooming.

They'll find those ideas anticipated here—in the models, in the weaves, in the character of patterns—in all those elements that stand for good clothes.

MEDICINE

Med Antics

Wishing to find out the Medical knowledge possessed by the average Arts student, we asked one of them to write a thesis on "Breathing." Here it is:

Breath is made of air. We breathe with our lungs, our lights, our liver, and our kidneys. If it wasn't for our breath we would die when we slept. Our breath keeps the life a-going through our nose, and when we are asleep. Boys that stay in room all day should not breathe. They should wait until they get out-of-doors. Boys in a room make unwholesome air. They make carbonic acid. Carbonic acid is poisoner than mad dogs. A heap of soldiers was in black hole in India, and a carbonic acid got in that there hole and nearly killed everyone before morning. Girls kill the breath with corsets that squeeze the diagram. Girls can't holler or run like boys, because their diagram is squeezed too much. If I was a girl I had rather be a boy, so I can run, holler and row and have a great big diagram.

Showing superlative form and brains the Meds bucked the Agsci rugby team out of the league running a few nights ago. All the boys played grand rugby, everybody starring.

The Med team is winning, despite the lack of practical enthusiasm evinced by their supporters. If you want to see a good game, be present when the Med rugby team trims Com-Law.

A series of experiments conducted in the Physiology Lab by Circuit Breaker Allan culminated a few days ago when he finally succeeded in demonstrating to his own satisfaction that in induced shocks the fine piece of technique will no doubt break in greater than the make. This soon be recognized by the leading scientific authorities.

The more active members a club has the more interest and enthusiasm it rouses. Don't forget this applies to the Med Club. Membership fees are now being received.

On Wednesday afternoon last, another business meeting of the Med Club was held. The piece de resistance was the form that Med Nite is to take this year. The subject is still in the air.

LAW

The Law Club was disappointed in not having its weekly luncheon last week owing to the unavoidable absence of Hon. Mr. Lapointe, who was scheduled to speak.

The Law-Commerce Rugby team having come through with the goods again against Arts on Wednesday, is now assured of a place in the finals. From present indications, it will take a good steam to stop them.

What did we tell you! Thanks to the work of Bright we were third in the Track Meet last week, and at that only two points behind Commerce. The team consisted of Bright, Cairns, Millard, Skouson, Mitchell and Hanson.

Freshie, (seeing Morrison enter the library very pompously): "That must be Lord Birkenhead." "No, that's Lord Woodneath."

We wonder how our old friends the Meds feel after the Track Meet? Never mind, old dears, we understand you still have a chance in the Ruggs.

Mr. Long was giving a long list of references and authorities for the Teutonic Theory of the Manorial System:

.....Vinogradoff, "Growth of the English Constitution"; Maitland's "Doomsday Book and beyond"..... De Mille, (from rear); "and Bob Edwards' Summer Annual."

The Law representatives on the Inter-Faculty Tennis tournament will be Jack Saucier and Jimmie Cairns. Look out, your other faculties, watch our dust. "Service!"

STUDENTS' UNION BUDGET RATIFIED

themselves at the end of the year with a deficit, it has been recognized as the only sound policy. In the second place, we received a surplus from last year and should do something to pass on to the next government. In the third place, if any teams win local championships which would entitle them to play off for further honors we should have a fund upon which they may draw if their trips are approved by the Union. In conclusion he said that whenever it was practicable large expenditures would be discussed in the Union meeting, but that if the students felt that they could not trust the Council with the ordinary expenditures from the general fund they should pass a vote of want of confidence.

The revised budget was moved by "Pip" Owen and seconded by John Cassels. Albert Rudd re-opened the debate upon the "bleachers question." He argued that it would be a much more business like policy for the Union to pay $50.00 of the cost this year and spread the rest over several years, since the succeeding classes will benefit as much as the present.

Wilf Ween replied by pointing out that we could afford to spend the $215.00 this year and that the increased attendance at the basketball games this winter will bring in receipts sufficient to cover the entire expenditure.

Mac Millard drew attention to the fact that although the bleachers were charged to Men's Athletics, the basket-ball club was the only one which would benefit and he said the money which could be released by proper financing of the bleachers should be distributed among the five other athletic clubs. Accordingly he introduced an amendment "that the sum of $215.00 for bleachers be taken from the budget and arrangements be made to spread this expenditure over a number of years."

This amendment was seconded by Albert Rudd.

Hugh Teskey opposing this amendment emphasized the fact that we can afford to put these up this year whereas next year we may have a number of champion ship teams to support.

Marjorie Bradford expressed her concurrence with Mr. Teskey's views and reminded the students that we are benefiting from many improvements left by our predecessors. We should therefore play our part willingly as benefactors of the future.

The debate on the amendment was concluded by Mac Millard who accused the Council of inconsistency in defending the general fund when the Rugby club asked for money and now allowing money to be tied up unnecessarily in these bleachers. The amendment was defeated.

L. S. Turcotte asked if the estimate from Mr. West included the fees of the first year Agriculture students who will be coming in at the beginning of the month.

Jack McAllister replied that it did not. He explained that whatever extra fees came in would be added to the general fund.

The budget was then voted on and passed.

The president then introduced the question of initiation which crops up annually about this time. He outlined the proposal which Dr. Tory had made to the Council at its last meeting, namely, that a day be officially set aside each fall when lectures would be called off in order that a combined track meet and initiation program might be put on. This day would be called University day and could be made one of the red-letter days of the year. It was also suggested that most of the foolish part of the initiation ceremony might very well be eliminated.

To center the discussion of this extremely difficult question Mark Levey moved "that the Students' Union put itself on record as favoring President Tory's proposal to the Council, which is, in general terms, to have in future a general University day."

The meeting then adjourned.

city Field Day incorporated in the Calendar provided that Men's Initiation takes place on the same day."

This motion was seconded by "Nifty" Addinall.

Hugh Teskey declared that the general opinion seems to be that the Track Meet was a decided success while the Initiation was certainly a failure and that the tendency seemed to be for initiation to deteriorate from year to year. Therefore he moved an amendment that "all forms of initiation at the field meet be under the supervision of the Council."

This amendment was seconded by P. Clarke who stated that in his opinion the supervision by the Council would take all the "kick" out of the initiation and contend that it should be left entirely to the Sophomore Class.

Rosenthal then presented the point of view of the Freshmen who are looking forward to vengeance upon next year's class and claimed that if their bands were tied next year a great deal of joy would be taken out of their lives.

Jack McAllister expressed the opinion that initiation should not be regarded as a means of appealing the desire for vengeance but as a course of instruction for new students in the traditions of the University.

Albert Rudd spoke in favor of the proposal to alter the present form of initiation and after discussing the advantages of having a special day set aside for the ceremony he moved an amendment which was not seconded.

George Parney pointed out that there is some good and some bad in the present initiation and in order that we might preserve the good and get rid of the bad more careful consideration was necessary. Therefore he moved that the motion be tabled. This was seconded by D. P. Skauzon.

Mark Levey pointed out that the supervision of the Council was not necessary in this case as it had been in the case of the over-town parades, because outsiders held the whole University responsible for the parades. Mr. Teskey's amendment was intended merely to protect the Track Meet from clashes with the Soph program, so it would be well to reconsider the necessity for introducing this amendment.

Hugh Teskey admitted that his intention was to protect the Track Meet from the irresponsible actions of the Sophs on initiation day.

The original motion, the amendment, and the motion to table the matter were then read by the secretary, George Bryan. The motion to table it carried.

Jack McAllister then announced that smoking in the halls is forbidden, and that in arranging dates for student functions the executives should consult the schedule committee.

A proposal was introduced by D. P. Skauzon that the president of the Union be made the chairman of a committee of three to approach the local passenger agents with a view to securing reduced rates for students at Christmas. The other two members of the committee were to be elected by the Union. The motion was seconded by "Pip" Owen.

L. S. Turcotte supported this motion pointing out that since conventions of various societies could get reduced rates the students ought to get some concessions also. The motion carried. Skauzon and Parney were elected to the committee.

The meeting then adjourned.

He draweth out—the thread of his verbosity finer than the staple of his argument.

For the Senior class to offer them membership for a nominal fee would not help—since few would be apt to join. Finally it was decided that the executive be instructed to point out to the Students' Council the desirability of forming a Fifth class.

All Seniors are asked to be on hand for the next class meeting when the fixing of fees, etc., will take place.
